Eat Up

Activity One – Prepositions and Phrasal Verbs.

Let's read the information:

The use of prepositions is, without doubt, one of the most difficult areas of English grammar. 'It is difficult to learn to use prepositions correctly in a foreign language. Most English prepositions have several different functions. Often the correct preposition cannot be guessed, and one has to learn the expression as a whole. '

Here are the most common prepositions in English: Let's think of some example sentences using some of the prepositions.

of to for on with at by as into about like between after through over under against before without within during towards off
upon among around across behind in out up off

Sometimes prepositions are used with a verb and change the meaning of that verb – these are called PHRASAL VERBS. For example:

Verb - To break the eggs

Phrasal verb - To break up

Activity Two - Cooking phrasal verbs – Miming game

Stir in	Spoon into	Put in
Mix up	Sprinkle over	Open up
Add in	Pick up	Cut up/slice up
Lift up	Put down
Spread out/roll out	Take out

Activity Three – Eat up

You are going to make a something with the ingredients that your teacher has supplied.

Note: the person who is cooking will wear a BLINDFOLD! This means that you will only get the dessert made if you can give precise instructions to your team-mate.

You need to use as many phrasal verbs as possible. Your teacher will give each team a point for each phrasal verb used. No French can be spoken!

Activity Four - Let's watch a cookery demonstration

First you will just watch the demonstration. Then you will watch it a second time while you write down as many phrasal verbs as you can about what you saw. Now talk about the demonstration using those phrasal verbs.

Activity Five - What am I cooking up?

- With your partner think up a recipe. Write the recipe using as many phrasal verbs as possible.
- Now read it to the class. They have to guess what you are cooking (the name of the dish) but don't make it too obvious!

Activity Six - Wall dictation

In small parts, you must memorize the lyrics to the song and then relay the lyrics to your team. Remember to pay attention to your pronunciation.

Now, let's sing!
