CNN | October 26, 2012

Former Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi has survived political, corruption and sex scandals over the years,

But on Friday, a Milan court sentenced the politician to four years in prison for tax evasion.

Berlusconi, who is likely to appeal, called it an "unacceptable political sentence" in an interview.

CNN | October 27, 2012

The family of disgraced UK TV presenter Jimmy Savile made its first public statement Saturday since many claims of sexual abuse of under-age girls.

They have destroyed the reputation of a man they had regarded as a hero.

Savile's nephew, Roger Foster, had defended his late uncle -- who hosted shows watched and heard by a generation of young Britons.

October 29, 2012

English football has had many racism scandals in the past year.

Now, they must deal with their first case of racial abuse by a Premier League referee.

League leaders Chelsea made a complaint over "inappropriate language" used by referee Mark Clattenburg during Sunday's controversial 3-2 home defeat by Manchester United.

CNN | October 10, 2012

Cyclist Lance Armstrong was part of "the most sophisticated, professionalized and successful doping program that sport has ever seen," the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency said Wednesday.

The evidence involving the U.S. cycling team has "direct documentary evidence that prove the use, possession and distribution of performance-enhancing drugs by Lance Armstrong,"