Activity Three - Techniques

What techniques can we use in English to make your pitch perfect?

☑ Intonation and stress - Learn how to stress the important words in your pitch so that they really stand out. You sound more interesting and convincing if you use intonation correctly.

☑ Short sentences - Keep it simple and use linking words to make your sentences short and clear.

☑ A motto - Find something which has a nice ring to it to use as a slogan or motto which sums up the most important thing you want someone to remember about you.

Activity Four - Read the article paying attention to your intonation and stress.

The 9C's of a great Elevator Pitch! (From Business News Daily).

- Concise. Keep the pitch succinct and clear, with as few words as possible.
- Clear. The pitch should be easily understood by a layman, rather than filled with acronyms and industry terminology.
- Compelling. What problem does your business solve, and what can you do for your target audience?
- Credible. Spell out what makes you qualified to do what you do, without using buzzwords like "outside the box" or "synergy." Using credibility-driven words like "certified" will help sell you.
- Conceptual. Keep your pitch broad; don't go into too many details.
- Concrete. The pitch should be tangible and easily grasped by your audience.
- Customized. Each target audience is different. The pitch should be tailored to the listeners.
- Consistent. No matter how many versions of your pitch you have, they should all convey the same basic message.
- Conversational. Start the conversation, and hook your target. Keep it casual, and don't try to close a deal in the pitch.

Activity Five - Compelling Words in English...

Here are some of the most persuasive words in the English language. Expert speakers have identified these words as being the most effective in getting a positive reaction from listeners. Try to use at least two of these in your pitch.

You, Discovery, Easy, Guarantee, Safety, New, Proven, Results.

Positive adjectives can also make a strong impression. For example:

Amazing, unusual, simple, Inspiring, strong, remarkable.

Activity Six - What's your pitch?

Let's follow the advice from activities two and three and four to create your pitch together. Present yourself and your company or department or project… You can have several versions of your pitch for different situations but each with the same core ideas and vocabulary.

Activity Seven - Let's practice… Dialogues..

Practice using your pitch in one of the following situations:

☑ You are attending a conference in a hotel in Sweden. You step into the elevator and realize that you are alone in there with the CEO of your company. You want him to remember you for the right reasons.

☑ You are in a meeting with a potential client who you have been trying to meet for years. You want to make a great first impression as soon as you arrive.

☑ You meet your international matrix manager for the first time and pick them up from the airport. You have a few minutes to talk in the taxi.

Activity Eight - Watch the video and answer the comprehension questions. Please prepare this before the lesson.
